

[The 1st. IMOTICON] Case Submission Guideline & Deadline for Submission

Dear Colleagues,

Greetings from the Korean Association for the Study of Intestinal Diseases (KASID).

We have organized the International Multi-society Online Case conference for Intestinal Diseases (IMOTICON) to increase online discussion among emerging researchers of intestinal disease in the Asia-Pacific region.

The 1st IMOTICON (International Multi-society Online Case conference for Intestinal Diseases) would allow young Asian researchers to share their treatment experiences for the diseases of interest, and promote further understanding on the latest medical conditions of each country. We hope this would be an opportunity to promote acquaintance among researchers of different countries, which would facilitate the formation of new research groups and projects in the near future.

Anyone who would be willing to participate in online case presentations, or listen to the presentations is welcome to participate. At the end of the session, all participants will select the most interesting case (MIC) among the conference through voting. Speakers selected as MIC will benefit from free registration of 2022 IMKASID.

Please join IMOTICON to stimulate academic exchanges in the era of COVID-19 pandemic through this virtual case conference.
